At Sevierville. [Sherthand Report.]

FELLOW-CITIZENS: I appear before you as the nominee of the republican party, seeking your suffrage for re-elecifon to the congress of the United Su tes. My competitor is here, the nominee of the democratic party, also seeking your votes for a seat in congress. I am always glad the speak to a community like this, because I have an opportunity theay of doing that which in many places in the country I have not, that of speaking to at leas a few democrats. [Laughter.] I gives me great pleasure to do this, be cause it is my purpose in this campaign to speak to as many democrat as cossible. Republicans do not ne d talking to. They are right siready, and in what I am going to say I beg the candid consideration and attention honest, conscientions democrats of the country should shake the dust from their feet and get out from among the wicked, disreputable party leaders of Now, if you will give me your at Lincoln received McClellan received 23,748. He tells you that I voted against FREE SALT.

I did no such thing. I voted against keeping the house in session indefinitely. I voted to adjourn rather than refer the resolution back and instruct the committee to do what they had said fifty times they would not do. Because I voted for ad-journment on this occasion my competitor journment on this occasion my competitor go to the polls and vote on the day of the has charged me every day with voting against free salt. Whenever the direct are any republicans who are physically issue comes up, you will find me voting for the free salt. The only time it was before the house I voted for it, and here is the record. any sick, or old men, have them provided

W. F. GIBBS. Pat. Shea is an intelligent young lawyer. My competitor denounces him, and I am glad to hear my young friend talk that way. Pat. Shea is an Irishman, and t will all of them vote for me if you talk that way. (Laughter.) But here is a statement from a man whose character he will not attack, and his statement will not be questioned by any one:

This is to certify that I was city editor of the Knoxville Cheonicle in the year 1878, as I am now, and that Thomas L. Williams, Esq., was alderman from the fourth ward of the city of Knoxville; also My friend tells you how the soldiers that at a regular meeting of the city coun-voted. He is the first man that gave the cil on the night of February 15th, 1878, in democratic party credit for putting down the rebellion. Was not Isham G. Harris Alderman Irvin (colored) to have colored and his set great union savers? (laughter.) men employed on the streets, the said Here is the way the soldiers did vote when that the street hands employed by the corporation should not be paid but eighty cents per day, which he affirmed was the highest market price for labor. He was opposed by Alderman Pat Shea and Moses Smith (colored), who were members of the same board, and who maintained that a laboring man could not live for less than one dollar per day, the amount they were then paid. The above remarks were substantially reported by me in the proceedings of the city council and published in the CHRONICLE of the 16th of February,
